Sepetçiler Pavilion - The HQ in İstanbul

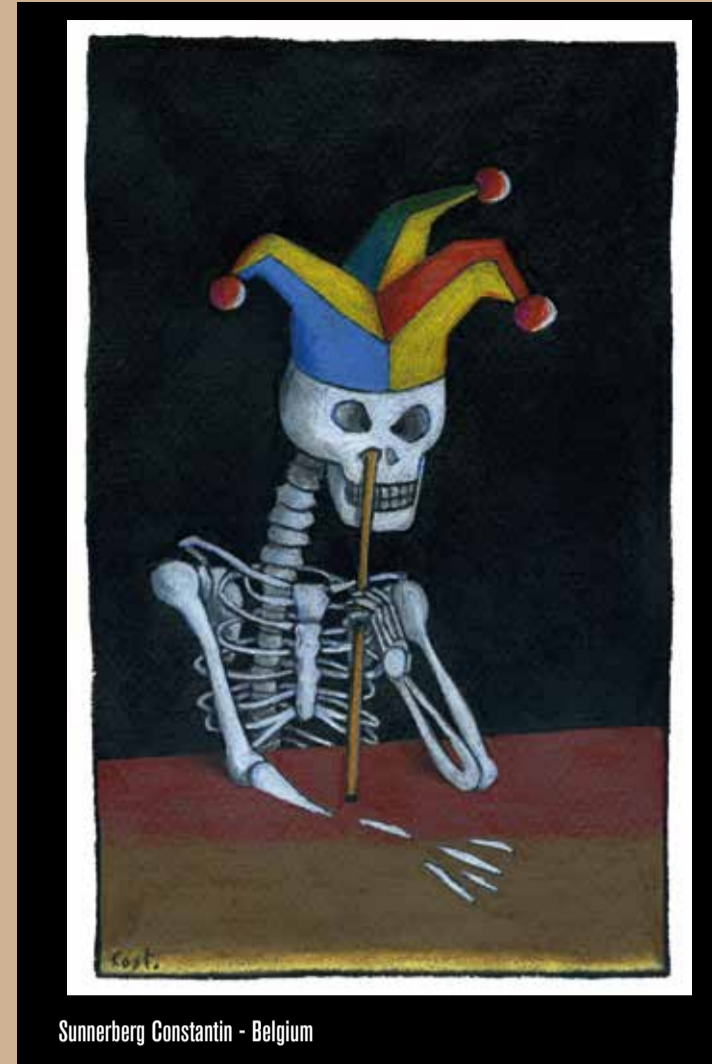

Sepetçiler Pavilion is one of the pavilions that remained intact to this day, located in the external garden of Topkapı Palace on the sea walls. The construction of Sepetçiler Pavilion was started in 1591 by Grand Vizier Sinan Pasha in Sultan Murat III's era (1574-1595) and was completed in the first year of the grand vizier office of Ferhat Pasha. The materials that were used in the construction of the pavilion, built on the walls from the era of Byzantium Emperor Theodosius II, were brought from various places of Anatolia: the red marble was brought from Darca and Rusçuk, tiles came from İznik, and iron accessories and nails came from Samakoy and Salonika.
